Dear Dr Engelmann

On looking at your Calendar I find that you have Mrs. Engelmann with you - pray bring her and dials if in England - it would be quite improper for me to decide what Heaven has joined.

Respecting the Road to be taken, I am now inclined to think, that you should go early in the morning to the Northlake Station

whence a train starts for Waterloo Bridge at half past Eight — from Waterloo Station you may walk at your leisure to the Northfleet Station at London Bridge, whence a train starts for our Country about 10 Minutes before Ten. — You take Return Tickets, and in this case for Northfleet Station where you get out, and the people at the Station are very civil and will direct you to my house. As for your return, that I shall be able to settle for you — if it suits you, we can give you a bed; then you ought not to take return tickets.

I see the Gilbury line is on Sundays very conveniently arranged for the Kew people.

You might also travel by Steamers, which would be very interesting, but it requires a guide and good local knowledge, to hit the right places at the right moment. In fact you would find it easier to navigate to Canton than to Northfleet, tho' to me it might be a matter of no difficulty.

I am very truly
